School Board Reduces Teachers Salaries 10 to 20 Per Cent

TENTATIVE SALARY SCHEDULE TO BE SUBMITTED TO TAXPAYERS' LEAGUE FOR FINAL CHECK UP AND APPROVAL SOON

Cuts in pay of Washington Union high school teachers ranging from 10 to 20%, were set forth in a salary schedule by the board of trustees at their meeting last Wednesday night. Although the reductions average 15.4%, the schedule is not yet final. It is to be submitted to the Taxpayers' League Budget committee for final approval sometime in July, or possibly before. If the reductions is to the satisfaction of the taxpayers, the schedule will go through, if not, no doubt the present time less than $2200, a ten per cent cut.

These cuts, as they will be submitted to the Tax League, amount to the above reductions in pay of individual teachers. The comparison is made with the salaries received during the 1932-1933 school year.

Bus driving jobs are to be taken from the two instructors who conduct classes besides drive the busses at the present time, and are to be given to district people who are in need of employment.

The class schedule has not been completed for the coming year, but it is unlikely that any classes will be dropped from the list now being offered. By combining classes and shifting the hours for their instruction, Principal Rathbone, has made the schedule somewhat more efficient.

UNABLE TO REACH VERDICT, SORIA JURY IS DISMISSED

Jury for the trial of John Soria, pea-striker, was unable to reach a verdict last Thursday afternoon, in the justice court of Judge Clark, at Livermore. The jury was dismissed after several hours of debate.

Soria, who is alleged to have struck and injured Motorcycle Officer J. A. Larsen in a police-striker fight at Decoto some weeks ago, was granted a change of venue from the Niles Justice court to the court of Judge Clark, in Murray township. Soria's attorney based his plea for a change of venue on the fact that a Washington township jury would bear prejudice toward his client.

A retrial was set for some time during the coming week.

HOMEcoming DAY TO BE MADE ANNUAL TOWNSHIP MEETING

Rev. Moore To Head Historical Data Committee

"We need cooperation between religious forces, in order to assist mankind to a higher plane, not a divergence of them." These were the words of Wm. Donohue, principal speaker at the Irvington Homecoming on Memorial Day. Donohue, in a splendid address to those who returned to Irvington for the day, touched on three themes. He told of early township activities, and brought reminiscences of days now gone. He also spoke, in the spirit of the day, on the everlasting honor of those who have died in conflict during struggles of world and national significance. In the major part of his address he stressed the necessity of the abolition of bigotry and hatred, in order that a more harmonious life may be attainable by mankind. Those who attended the Homecoming were deeply impressed by his remarks.

Donohue, who was once a student of the old Washington College at Irvington, returned to his former environment by airplane from Los Angeles on the morning of Memorial Day. He returned by the same means at the conclusion of the day. He was introduced as the main speaker by Dr. J. H. Durham, of Irvington. There were several other speakers, and during the course of the afternoon, it was moved by Mrs. J. E. Thane, and seconded that a committee, headed by the Reverend Moore should be formed to collect historical data of the township, and preserve it. It was further decided to make the Homecoming an annual event, with a purpose to keep alive old contacts and traditions.

There were fifty or more at the banquet in the afternoon, after a much larger number had congregated to renew acquaintances.

People were in attendance from Stanislaus, Monterey, San Joaquin, Alameda and Santa Clara counties. Among the number were the following:

Mrs. Helen Olough Ford, Niles; Mr. and Mrs. Guy W. Smith, San Jose; Mr. and Mrs. J. Rowe, Watsonville; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Matto, Oakland; Mr. and Mrs. C. Stienmetz, Pacific Grove; William H. Donohue, Oakland; Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Thane, Niles; Mrs. J. R. Whipple, Niles; Mrs. J. H. Debussy, Pasadena; Harry Saxe, San Francisco; Col. Wm. B. Hamilton, San Francisco; Mrs. Edith Jackson, Calistoga; Mrs. E. Updike Service, Ceres; Mrs. May J. Leslie, Pacific Grove; Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Caswell, Cherokee, Iowa; Frank Craycroft, Modesto; Mrs. Julia R. Straver, Berkeley; and a score or more of Washington township people.

SALARY ORDINANCE PASSED, IN EFFECT UNTIL SEPTEMBER

Fixes County Salaries At Same Level As Past Year

The salary ordinance, fixing the wages and salaries of Alameda county workers and officials was passed last Thursday with the approval of four of the five county supervisors. Fixing the wages and salaries for county workers at the same rate as the past year, the ordinance will be in effect until the month of September, 1933, at which time the county budget in its entirety will be subject to any changes thought necessary by the board. The only member of the board to vote against passage of the ordinance was Ralph V. Richmond, Supervisor from Southern Alameda county.

An attempt to effect reductions in the salary expenditures of the county, before the salary ordinance was passed, was made at a public meeting before the board Tuesday of last week by the Taxpayers' league of Washington township, supported by representation from Murray and Pleasanton townships. It is reported that the board of supervisors at that time would offer little promise of a reduction in county expenses. The board was to meet last Saturday to discuss possible immediate action on the salary question, but the passing of the salary ordinance late last week undoubtedly nullifies any plans for reduction within the next three months.

WAR DEAD HONORED BY LEGION AND AUXILIARY

Honoring the war dead, and building up the sentiment of Memorial Day in Washington township, the Washington township Legion Post on Memorial Day conducted a regional ceremony, which started at the Niles grammar school and ended at Mission San Jose.

About fifty Legionnaires and twenty-five members of the Ladies Auxiliary Unit, assisted by fifty Washington township boy scouts of troops from Niles, Decoto and Irvington, formed at the Memorial building at Niles at 11:00 A. M. They proceeded first to the Memorial tree, placed in the Niles grammar school grounds in 1919 in honor of the Township war heroes, and paid silent tribute.

Next the Legionnaires went to the Irvington cemetery, where a salute was fired over the graves of soldiers by a firing squad from the Hayward Armory. Hon. Thomas J. Powers addressed the multitude at Irvington. From Irvington the retinue proceeded to the Centerville cemetery where the salute was repeated. Judge Allen G. Norris spoke, telling of the significance of the day, and its meaning to the individual American. Mission San Jose was the last place where the group paid homage.

This year's Memorial Day program was the first one of its kind attempted by the Washington township Legion post. It is the plan of the post to henceforth conduct a similar Memorial service, perhaps in conjunction with other township organizations.

On June 6, at 8:00 p. m., Carl Zamloch, magician and former University of California Baseball coach and manager of the Oaks, will baffle the Legionnaires with his card tricks and magic. Zamloch has always been a splendid amateur magician.

BEAST BOTHERS SCRIBE; POLICE AID IS CALLED

MARTIN JOHNSON and his African safari have nothing on Jack Simonds, manager of the Pleasanton Times, when it comes to persuing and caging wild beasts. Simonds, while busy at his desk in the Pleasanton office last Saturday morning, became conscious, he avers, of the close scrutiny of glaring eyes. Upon glancing up, he found himself confronted by a small, belligerent weasel, advancing toward him with a measured tread, and obviously with carnivorous intent. Simonds saved himself by climbing on his desk, and the monster disappeared, apparently gone to seek more tractable prey.

Later in the day, when Simonds had occasion to work again at his desk, the beast again appeared, this time protruding its head from behind the inkwell on the desk top. Slightly out of patience with this peek-a-boo stunt, Simonds called up Constable Al. Vervais to come and remove the menace. Vervais was out, so Simonds determined to end the game himself. Securing a large rat-trap from Cruikshank & Koll's hardware store, Simonds, assisted by the more fearless of the curious crowd, proceeded to poke the now outraged beast with column rules in an attempt to induce it into the cage. After about an hour of discussion and effort, during which time the weasel ate the varnish off the desk, the brute was forced into the contraption. Upon being questioned as to the weasel's motive in entering the office, Simonds stated that he had some particularly juicy news copy that week.

FOOD POISONING SUBJECT OF TALK BEFORE CHAMBER

Civic Group Assists Toward Purchase of Burros

Speaking on a subject of interest to all housewives, and to all consumers, for that matter, William E. Jones, manager of the Schuckl cannery at Niles Monday told the Niles Chamber of Commerce of various types of food poisoning, and of the research to effect control of it. Jones discussed in particular what is known as "food intoxication," caused by an anerobic bacteria called bacillus Botulinus, which is sometimes found in various kinds of canned vegetables. Among all of the various food poisonings, Botulinus, caused by this bacillus, is one of the most deadly, Jones said, stating that no effective antidote for the poisoning has been worked out.

Botulinus, Jones said, was first discovered in Germany in or about the year 1735, but isolation of the bacillus was not achieved until 1897, when Von Ermengem conducted research on the problem.

Anerobic bacteria, which flourish in the absence of oxygen, are responsible for the toxins generated in sealed cans, Jones stated, saying that the presence of the poison is sometimes indiscernable, although in the majority of cases there is a slight discoloration of the contents along with a faint cheesy odor. Jones advised that any canned vegetable foods showing the least unusual traces should be discarded, care being taken to prevent animals of fowl from eating them.

California leads the list of the states in which outbreaks of Botulinus have occurred, there being some eighty-six appearances since the time when the poisoning was first noticed. Among the major outbreaks in this state was one in 1919, finally traced to canned ripe olives.

PIONEER TOWNSHIP WOMAN DIES SUDDENLY

ASSAILANT OF GIRL GIVEN 4 MONTHS SENTENCE

Arrested on May 19 on a charge of battery filed by Espranza Martinez, Felix Hernandez, Newark man, was sentenced by Judge J. A. Silva last Friday at the Niles Justice court to four months in the county jail. Having struck a fourteen year old girl, Hernandez was given what amounts to almost the maximum sentence in a battery case.

Hernandez struck the Martinez girl when she attempted to assist her father after Hernandez, in a drunken fury, had knocked him down. She was badly bruised by the blows. Hernandez, when arraigned before Judge Silva on May 19, pleaded not guilty.

PEACE DISTURBER GETS 90 DAYS IN JAIL

Drunk and abusive, and threatening the family of Joseph Muniz with violence, Barvino Ramos, Decoto man, was arrested last Wednesday night, May 24, by the Decoto night watchman. Ramos was tried before Judge J. A. Silva Friday, May 26, and sentenced to ninety days in the Alameda county jail for disturbing the peace.

Harboring what was apparently an imaginary grudge, Ramos forced his way into the Muniz home at Decoto and loudly stated, according to witnesses, his intention of annihilating the entire Muniz family. Muniz promptly threw him out. Whereupon Ramos took up his stand beneath a window and proceeded to make the night hideous with his profanity and threats until the Decoto watchman, attracted by the uproar, arrived and placed him under arrest.

CHAMPION TO BE TRIED SECOND TIME ON CHARGE

Time for the second trial of Charles Champion, recently tried in the Niles Justice court on a battery charge brought by Frank Costa, Peerless Grill waiter, will be set for tomorrow by Judge J. A. Silva. It became necessary to re-try Champion when the jury at the first trial on May 20 was unable to reach a verdict.

Champion was arraigned before Judge Silva recently after Frank Costa filed charges stating that he was attacked by Champion in an unjustified manner at the Peerless grill.

Miss Elizabeth Barry, 86, Passes Away After Fall

Miss Elizabeth Anne Barry, who had been a resident of Washington township for fifty years, passed away suddenly Sunday, after an illness of only three days. Miss Barry, who was eighty-six years of age, fell over a small ditch on her ranch between Niles and Centerville, last Thursday and broke her hip. Pneumonia resulted from the anesthetic necessary to the setting of the broken bone.

The deceased was a native of West Meath, Ireland. She came to the United States in 1877. She first lived in the eastern states, and came to California and Washington township in 1883. Miss Barry took a definite interest in the progress of the San Francisco bay region, keeping a continuous diary from the time of her arrival here up until the time of her death. She collected much valuable lore, and early California material.

She was a member of the Orient Chapter, 177, Order of the Eastern Star, having joined that organization on April 16, 1900, during the thirty-three years of her membership in the organization, Miss Barry is said to have missed very few meetings.

At the death of her brother, William Barry, Miss Barry carried on the weather statistical work which he had started in 1886. Keeping an annual and daily record of the rainfall and temperature, the Barry records are of great value to this region as well as an important contribution to meteorological studies on the west coast of North America. Miss Barry's records are the most complete in this part of the state.

The deceased was the sister of the late Edward, William and Frederick Barry of California, and the late Thomas Barry, of Christ Church, New Zealand.

Of great interest several years ago was the naturalization of Miss Barry, who stated her desire to die as an American citizen. After being a resident of the United States for fifty years, Miss Barry took out her citizenship papers before Judge Fred V. Wood of Oakland, in 1927. She was eighty years old at the time.

The deceased is survived by no close kin. Nephews and nieces reside in San Jose, Alameda, Oakland, Piedmont, San Rafael, and San Francisco.

The funeral, under the auspices of the Orient Chapter of the Eastern Star, was held yesterday from the Chapel of the Palms at Centerville. Interment was in the Mt. View cemetery in Oakland.

SHARP EARTHQUAKE AGAIN HITS NILES

Niles was again rocked sharply when a short earthquake shock occurred at 9:33 P. M. last Friday night. Doing no damage whatsoever, the quake was barely registered by the seismographs at the University of Santa Clara observatory. According to Dr. Albert J. Newlin, seismologist, the quake was centered on the Hayward fault about twenty miles north of Santa Clara.

Professor Newlin concluded that the tremor was highly centralized in the vicinity of Niles. Slippage along the Hayward fault, during the recent shake of May 16, seems to have been centered somewhere along the western base of Mission Peak and the hills just north of it.

Come In Handy

JIM ALLEN shivered as he stood in the jostling group and waited dumbly for the big doors to open and the crowd to rush in. Slowly he counted the men around him—twenty-eight of them, all trying to get the same job.

As the moment approached for the doors to open, Jim's tension grew. If he failed this time he would have to beg or steal, for Sally had to have food and warmth; there were exactly thirty-three cents left in the worn pocket of his trousers and he had had no breakfast.

They had been neighbors back home—and had fallen in love as naturally as any other denizens of the forest and had spent a blissful month planning their future. Then Sally had suddenly developed a streak of restlessness.

"Just seems like I couldn't settle down till I got a chance to see a big city," she had told him. "I ain't never seen a street car nor any big fine houses or nothin'." They say they got houses down there twenty or thirty stories high, just piled one on top of the other. It must be a sight.

Jim had tried to dissuade her, but in vain. Sally was determined. The adventurous spirit of her pioneer ancestors had seemed to crop out in her. On a bright fall morning she had taken wings unto herself and had flown away, carrying with her a crash covered "telescope" full of home-made clothes and $8.80 in her cheap little purse. Jim had heard from her regularly, but the letters had brought little news; a few laboriously written lines of stilted sentences: "I am well and hope you are the same. I like it here fine, but do miss you a heap. Hope all the folks are well." Then at last had come a note: "I am bad off sick. Can you come? Don't tell Mommy and Poppy."

Half frenzied with terror lest she should be desperately ill, Jim had dropped his work and rushed to town. After a bewildering search he had found her in an unspeakably dreary rooming house, in an unheated room. Her face was pinched then and her cheeks flushed with fever. When he first saw her he was so shocked that he could not speak.

When the people in the rooming house heard that Sally's friend had arrived they helped him find the things he needed. They directed him where to get food and where to buy fuel for the empty grate. Almost immediately the girl began to show improvement. Jim spent his few dollars with joy, then suddenly found his pockets nearly empty and the search for work began. Day after day he allowed himself only two meals a day, then only one meal until finally, he did not dare permit himself even a cup of coffee. If he didn't get this job—

The doors in front of him opened noiselessly. A well-dressed man stood at the entrance.

"Sorry, boys, but we hired a man yesterday afternoon."

The crowd turned away growling down the unfamiliar street. At a big store window Jim was attracted by a display of homespun. "These are woven back in the hills by the mountain folk," a card informed him. It would be warm inside, and he felt that he could not endure the cold another minute, so he turned in the door.

"Can I wait on you?" a man's voice inquired.

"I was just lookin' at the homespun you got in the window. Mommy used to make me weave that stuff when I was a youngun."

"Can you still do it?"

Jim nodded listlessly. "We've got a loom and spinning wheel and we're thinking of putting on a window display for a week. Could you find a mountain girl to spin?"

Something like an electric current swept through Jim as he grasped the import of the other's words.

"Sure could," he answered.

"All right. Tomorrow's Saturday. You come on down and get the loom set up and we'll start the display on Monday."

So the Sunday papers carried an advertisement to the effect that Sally Lane and Jim Allen of Bear Wallow would give a demonstration of weaving and spinning at Whittington's all the following week.

By the time the store opened Monday morning people were already crowded around the big window, to watch the mountain girl and man at work. Every hour they came out of the show window and talked to the customers in the store.

"They're the quaintest things I ever saw and you ought to hear them talk!" said one customer to another. "Mr. Whittington says he's going to keep Sally to sell the goods because she can explain how it's made and everything, and Jim's going to do some kind of work around the store. Sally told me all about it. She's the happiest little thing—and so pretty—looks just like a wild flower!"

Jim laughed that night for the first time in weeks as he held Sally close in his arms.

"My weavin' come in handy, didn't it?" he said. "And remember how Mommy used to have to beat me to make me do it!"

Equinoctial Storms Just as Likely at Any Time

The latter days of September and March bring the usual popular talk about the so-called "equinoctial storms." And it is a fact that this age-old folklore often seems vindicated, for frequently we do have severe storms in this period.

These are not storms due to the equinox, that season when the sun passes the equator, usually September 22, and about the same date in March, but are caused by tropical storms and hurricanes. The southward movement of the sun does not create storms; they are the results of certain meteorological and geographical factors down in the trade wind and doldrum belts of the tropics.

There is no such thing as an "equinoctial storm." The fall equinox happens to come in the midst of the tropical hurricane season, and some of the most severe disturbances have occurred in the latter days of September. But records show that few storms come on September 22; they are just as likely to appear on the 16th or the 28th, but people always associate them with the period of the equinox.

FEATURE CLUB MEETING

Three one-act plays, produced by the Dramatics Section of the Country Club of Washington Township will comprise the main program to be presented at the regular meeting of the Country Club on Tuesday afternoon, June 6, at the club house in Centerville. It has been the practice of the club members to each year produce a series of short plays during the spring. The parts are played by members of the club.

The plays to be presented Tuesday are "The Pot of Broth," played by Mrs. Josephine A. Brown, Mrs. C. E. Anderson and Mrs. Raymond Pond. "The Crystal Gazer," played by Mrs. Howard Chadbourne and Mrs. F. T. Dusterberry, and "Tell a Woman," played by Mrs. Walter Robie, Mrs. August May, Mrs. Harvey Braun and Mrs. J. E. Townsend.

Mrs. J. E. Townsend, as music chairman, has secured Harry Salz for the rendition of musical numbers during the afternoon. According to various members of the club, Mr. Salz is an indispensable part of the musical program. He has played before the club for several years.

United Catholic Clubs To Hold Beach Picnic

Many members of the Centerville Knights of Columbus, and their families are planning to attend the United Catholic Societies picnic at Neptune Beach to be held Sunday, June 11. According to members of the Centerville lodge there will be dancing and concessions. The picnic lunch will be eaten on the beach or wherever the picnicers fancy. Tickets for the affair may be secured from Ernest Pimentel at the Bank of America at Centerville at any time previous to the affair.

Lions Club Supplies Cost of Scout Flags

Having been without troop flags since theirs were burned in the court house fire about a year ago, the Centerville Boy Scouts are this week feeling extremely grateful to the Centerville Lions, who, at last Thursday's meeting appropriated $17 for the purpose of supplying the troop with new flags.

FORDS NOSED OUT LIONS CLUB ASKS BY FUELS IN 11 FRAMES GOVERNOR TO SIGN BILL

Not playing what can be called head-up ball, the Hodgkins Fords lost Sunday to the Driesbach Fords of Oakland, in an eleven inning session on the Washington Union High school diamond. Anybody's game until the eleventh inning, the Fords ran in to a couple of fatal errors, allowing the Fuels to dash across the plate with the two winning runs. The final score was 7 to 5 in favor of the Fuels.

Spud Dagermark, of the Fords, pitched a marvelous game of ball, using a control that had the Fuels guessing most of the time. A little more solid support behind him, and Jesse would have turned in his second win for the season. He struck out six of his opponents and walked only one. He allowed the Fuels 13 bingles. A. Xavier, hurler for the Driesbachs, gave the Fords three free trips and fanned five.

Dutra, Ford shortstop, started the day's festivities with his sensational catch of what was a sure hit. Fontes, third-base for the Fords, drew hitting honors for the day with 750 average. He found the seed four times out of five tries, each hit a screeching bingle.

Jesse Jacinto, Ford catcher and popular store owner of Alvarado, was injured in the sixth inning, when a runner unnecessarily collided with him at the home plate.

He had to leave the game and allow McKenzie to take his place. McKenzie did a fine job of the assignment, instilling life into the boys. Lebon's timely bingle in the eighth scored three runs and put the Fords out in front, only to have the Fuels come back in the ninth and tie the score five all. The game went the extra frames at this tally until the eleventh.

A crowd was brought out by the perfect weather, and it begins to look like a good gallery is to be had from now on. Next Sunday the Fords will tie up with the Chapel of Oaks team of Oakland, and the game promises to be another corker.

"FAMILY NIGHT" TO BE HELD BY LODGE

Having planned for some time to have an evening's entertainment for the families of the lodge members, the Knights of Columbus at Centerville, have set aside the evening of June 22 as "Family Night." Besides the presentation of three or four short plays, there will be dancing and refreshments, according to Ernest Pimentel deputy Grand Knight of the Centerville organization.

The affair will be held at the Parish Hall in Centerville, with arrangements being made by a committee of three members. George Kommers is chairman of the arrangements committee, being assisted by James Collins, Grand Knight of the lodge, and Ernest Pimentel. Members hope that "Family Night" will find a permanent place on the roster of events sponsored by the Centerville lodge.

Miss Mila Norris returned Monday to her work in the library in Bakersfield, after spending the week-end with her mother in Centerville. Her mother, Mrs. Garrett Norris, accompanied her to Bakersfield to spend a few days there.

Feeling that the independent angler should have access to the best bass fishing stream in the west, the Centerville Lions club last week dispatched a letter to Governor James Rolph, petitioning that official to sign a bill recently passed by the legislature providing that commercial fishermen shall be excluded from the lower Klamath river.

According to Fred Rogers, game warden, it has been so arranged in the past few years that large commercial fishers, using legitimate means, have so completely fished the stream that extinction of the famous bass is threatened. By passage of the bill now pending before the Governor, the stream will be returned to the individual angler. The lower Klamath river, Rogers said, is famous among the disciples of Isaac Walton all over the United States.

Rogers also mentioned the decrease in the numbers of wild ducks as a direct result of the draining of large areas of the lower Klamath region by improvement companies, thus reducing the natural habitat of the wild fowl.

J. Dickie, Cartoonist, Draws for Students

Centerville Grammar school's undefeated nine, last Thursday added to its list of victories when it defeated the Newark 100-pound team on the Newark diamond. Under the coaching of Tom Maloney, former San Jose State star and first baseman, the Centerville team has been impossible to beat this season. Score of the game last week was 8 to 2. Clide Anderson, Walter Rupp, Richard Inouy, Leonard Bettencourt and Yashio Kakimoto all played fine ball for the Centerville outfit.

Among other items of interest at the Centerville school was the visit last Thursday morning of J. Dickie, Oakland Tribune cartoonist, who drew various cartoons much to the delight of the students.

Another visitor to the school last week was Miss Kelly, deputy county superintendent. She visited various classes.

The Centerville Grammar school will close for the summer, June 9th.

"NO GRASS BURNED WITHOUT PERMIT" SAYS CHIEF ROGERS

Fred Rogers, Centerville fire chief, says that the state law regulating the starting of grass and rubbish fires became operative on May 15, and that from that date on no grass fire of any sort is to be started in the Centerville fire district without a permit, either from himself or from Assistant Fire Chief Frank Madruga. This law, put into effect annually, at the beginning of the dry season, is designed to prevent damage to property by poorly managed and uncontrolled grass fires. Each year, Rogers said, considerable property damage is caused, especially along fences under which growth of grass is heavy.

W.U.H.S. SENIOR BALL JUNE 9
The senior ball, the outstanding social event of the high school year is to be held in the Washington Union High school gymnasium on the evening of June 9, which is the night after the graduation exercises at the high school. A semi-formal affair, the senior ball has always been the main dance of the season for high school students and alumni.

K. OF C. BALL LEAGUE RESUMES TROPHY BATTLE SOON

Signs of spring bring forth the ball clubs is the opinion of the Centerville Knights of Columbus, according to Ernest Pimentel, deputy Grand Knight of that organization. A baseball league, which is made up of Knights of Columbus teams from Centerville, Alameda, Oakland and Berkeley, is to resume their games to decide which organization will retain the championship trophy. In order to gain permanent possession of the cup, a team must win it three times in succession. The Berkeley lodge has won for the last two years and a win in the league for them this year will clinch the chalice for their shelves.

Each team in the league will play two games with each opponent on Sundays, in a schedule yet to be drawn up, according to Pimentel. This makes the fourth year of competition amongst the four lodges. Centerville has possessed the trophy for one year so far. Berkeley the other two.

"THE CHARM SCHOOL" TOMORROW NIGHT AT W. U. H. S.

"The Charm School," play of the 1933 senior class of Washington Union High school, will be presented at the high school auditorium tomorrow evening at 8 p. m. Under the direction of Miss Aubrey Nicely, the cast has been working hard on the production for several weeks. Parts in the play, according to Miss Nicely, are particularly adapted to high school students, since the characterizations are nearly all of youthful people.

Initiation Dinner Held By Legion Auxiliary

With mothers of the veterans, members of the Pleasanton Post of the American Legion, and the members of the 40 and 8 degree team as guests of honor, the ladies of the Pleasanton American Legion Auxiliary entertained with a very delicious dinner at the Veterans Memorial building recently, just prior to the regular meetings of the two Pleasanton organizations. Baked Ham, new potatoes, new peas and carrots, salad, desert and coffee made up the menu.

Following the dinner, both organizations had initiation of candidates. The Pleasanton Unit of the Auxiliary made its quota and now has sixty members. Officers of the Unit put on the initiatory work and a class made up of Mrs. Ada Elworthy, Mrs. Gladys Campbell, Mrs. Edith Tringham, Mrs. Dorothy Simonds, Mrs. Rose George, Mrs. Irene Stevenson, and the little Misses Viva Campbell, Jane Elworthy and Edna Allison rode the goat.

Following the Auxiliary initiation, the Legion post initiated its class, with the 40 and 8 degree team putting on the ceremony.

Those who were officially welcomed into the Pleasanton Post were Dr. E. E. Lundegaard, Ralph Guilanelli, Joseph Possaggi, Jack Simonds, Carlo Cavestri, Elmer Campbell, A. E. Macey, Clarence Elworthy, W. M. Watkins, and J. A. Anderson.

The work put on by the teams at both initiations was most impressive, and the attending crowd

PICNICKERS SWARM CANYON TO HAIL SUMMER

A belated summer, puffing its prevailing westerly breath, came racking into its place in the year Saturday with splashes of heat-haze and gold. As though stirred by some cataclysmic occurrence, automobiles, bearing pyramids of grinning heads, swarmed over the highways. Road signs, having stood disconsolately through the long winter, suddenly found themselves squirming under hundreds of squinted glances, as boggled motorists craned anxious necks. Thermometers pointed proudly to 85 degrees, a temperature they had not seen for many months.

Resorts in Niles Canyon, having languished long in preparation for Sunday hordes, were deluged with motorist picnickers. Bathing suits appeared as picnic after picnic settled along the streams. Gurglings, other than the brook's, were to be heard as bottle openers came into action upon familiar brown glass containers. Proprietors of the canyon establishments and picnic grounds, like the farmers, pray loudly throughout the spring for a warm and balmy summer. Their crops, also like the farmers', spring up in warm weather.

PLEASANTON MAN GOES ON TRIP

Andy Greve, one of the genial partners in the store of Christensen and Greve, left for parts unknown Saturday night. A short note said that he would be back in three weeks.

For the past several days Andy has had a far away look in his eyes, and has been somewhat absent minded, nervous, and at times almost poetical. However, in the spring a young man's fancy is liable to turn toward love, and friend's of Andy's are sure that he has gone to take unto himself a bride.

Troy, Montana, is a lengthy trip to take for nothing, and from the information we have been able to gather, Andy is heading toward that town. It is rumored that the young lady in question is the sister of one of our progressive business men.

Should Andy return with a bride, his friends are preparing a nice warm reception home for him, and we fear Andy will have to atone for slipping one over on his friends.

Pleasanton Dogs Are Poisoned With Meat

Among those who have reported the loss of their pets are Bob Gibson, A. Bottini, H. Ballard, Rolling and De Guillo. According to reports the poison has been left on Spring, Angela, St. Marys and St. John streets.

MORE ON Food Poisoning

Subsequent research by the Hooper foundation and by the National Canners association and the olive growers, have revealed many facts of the nature of the toxin, and the olives of today are free from infection for the most part. According to Jones green olives, due to a slight acidic element which counteracts the spores, are entirely free from the danger of infection. Such is the case with most canned fruits, Jones maintained.

Jones further said, with all due respect to housewives who can a great deal of produce, that home-canned vegetables are found to have been the cause of most cases of poisoning in question. In explaining this, Jones told that home canning methods do not have sufficient cooking heat or pressure to kill the spores if any are present in the vegetables. Fruits, he said, were not effected in the same way, and that the home canned variety were quite as safe as cannery packs.

In conclusion Jones stated that research and investigation carried on by the canning league, and the improvement of canning techniques has greatly lessened the danger in vegetable packs. He said that the state of California, although once leading in outbreaks of the Botulinus poisoning, now produces extremely safe canned goods.

At the business meeting, preceding Jones' talk, the Chamber discussed the purchase of four jackasses for the Niles Jackass polo team. J. Ferrera, member of the team was present to ask the chamber for their financial support in the initial purchase of the beasts. Ferrera stated that invitations for the polo team to play at San Mateo, Gilroy, Salinas and Pleasanton, if accepted would furnish a great deal of publicity for the Niles civic body. He was supported by various members of the Chamber and the question of the burros' purchase was left up to the executive committee for final settlement. The committee met immediately following the regular chamber meeting and decided to allow the polo team $30 toward the purchase of the burros, the balance will be put up by the players themselves. Hence the animals will be owned by the team.

President F. V. Jones reminded the members that there were only four more meetings before the body would be adjourned for the summer vacation. He urged that any pressing business should be concluded before the body disbanded for the season.

Pleasanton Club Wins Honors at Hayward Meet

One Hundred Children Attend Meeting In Hayward

Pleasanton's 4 H club was well represented at the Achievement Day program held at the Independent school, near Hayward, recently. All 4 H clubs in the county were represented at the affair, with Pleasanton having the largest attendance, a total of four leaders and twenty five children. The clubs represented were Bret Harte, Clover Leaf, and Fairview, from Hayward, Mountain House, Newark, Mount Eden and the Pleasanton club.

A number of blue ribbons were awarded to the Pleasanton members. All awards were made on a basis of workmanship and not competition.

Part of the time was devoted to the display of dresses made by the 4 H girls, and prices, and time taken in making were gone into very thoroughly.

The boys talked over their problems in chicken, rabbit and vegetable raising, and gave figures and details regarding the planting, care, market price and profit of the many enterprises.

Younger girls of the group had a display of hemmed tea and hand towels, pot holders, and simple cotton dresses.

Winning honors for the Pleasanton Boys club were Billy and Richard Stahl, first place in the vegetable group, Bobby Casterson, first in vegetables and chickens, Billy Hall, first in chickens, John Francisco, first in vegetables, Jack Florio, first in pigeons, and Stewart Allison, first in rabbits.

Chess Players Held Meeting at Pleasanton

The Pleasanton Chess club met at the home of Dr. Richard Heinz Tuesday evening, with C. Potvin taking the honors, only being defeated once in the evening.

The young men who enjoyed the chess play and the delicious refreshments which were served by the host were Sam Paskewitz, C. T. Hamer, Peter Nielsen, Clyde Potvin, Bill Letham, Jimmie Trimmingham and the host.

The next meeting will be at the home of Clyde Potvin.

Dr. H. E. Morrison, San Jose physician, called on Niles friends last Tuesday.

The club leaders who made the trip were the Mesdames Florio, Newton and Casterson, and Ed Holzrietter.

Pleasanton Boy Answers for Crimes

That crime does not pay, was again demonstrated in Pleasanton last week, when, after days of watchful waiting, the alert police officers of Pleasanton succeeded in nipping in the bud, a career that was leading to the making of another criminal.

After having successfully entered the Lincoln theater by removing the hinges from the back door, and having made a practice of doing this for several nights, Rudolph Ulmer was finally warned by the manager to desist from such a practice. The act was done again, and the young man was taken before Judge Charles A. Gale, and the judge spent a great deal of time with the lad in trying to impress him with the duties of growing to manhood. That same night the youth once again broke into the theatre, and as a result was turned over to Night patrolman Sanderson, who in turn placed him in the custody of Constable Vervais and Chief of Police John Delucchi.

A search revealed a loaded revolver on the boy, and after some questioning, he confessed to having done considerable petty theft jobs in Pleasanton. Hailed before the Judge, the boy was turned over to the Juvenile court and was placed in the detention home. By sawing his way out, the lad made his escape about five o'clock Sunday morning.

Speedy work on the part of Al Vervais, constable, assisted by O. W. Ebright, constable at Niles, resulted in the recapture of the boy in Hayward, Sunday morning, five hours after his escape.

Pleasanton Legion Outing Is Huge Success

Some sixty legionnaires, wives, kiddies and friends braved the elements last Sunday and had a fine day at the Rifle range grounds, located on the Banke ranch near Dublin.

Immediately after the lunch hour the activities got under way. Earl Trimmingham was chairman of the day, and he had everything planned to run off in smooth style.

Marksmen adjourned to the target range where they competed one with another. Roy Stevenson made the high score, 23 out of a possible 25 at 250 yards. Morris Elsnab and Adolph Banke were next in standing with twenty one each, and Henry Lanini scored in fourth place.

Races of all kinds were run off in tip top shape, with a sack race for the Auxiliary women featuring those endeavors. Mrs. Roy Stevenson broke the tape a winner.

A kiddies relay race, four runners to a team ended in a dead tie. A baseball game, the Auxiliary against the men of the Legion was called on account of fatigue after three innings. At that time the score was somewhere in the neighborhood of 823 to 822, with the women ahead, of course. True to tradition, the women's ability to kid the umpire was responsible for their margin of victory. Ray Ewart officiated, but being an oil man, his qualifications are somewhat doubtful along the umpiring lines.

Along about five o'clock it was a tired but laughing crowd that wended its way homeward, all eagerly anticipating another picnic in the near future.

Pleasanton 4-H Clubs Plan for Summer Camp

Summer Camp To Be Held At Hayward Park

A good many of the 4 H club boys and girls are planning to attend the Alameda county summer camp at Bjornson's park, near Hayward, June 22 and 23, it was announced by club leaders this week.

The young members will get five meals and four swims for one dollar. Games and camp fire gatherings are planned as added attractions for the two day meet.

Members of the Farm Home Department, Farm Home Bureau, and the boys and girls of the 4 H clubs are all entitled to camp on these two days.

In past years the camp has been held so far away that it was almost impossible for children from here to attend, but with the camp in the new location it is hoped that a large number will attend.

Chess Players Held Meeting at Pleasanton

The young men who enjoyed the chess play and the delicious refreshments which were served by the host were Sam Paskewitz, C. T. Hamer, Peter Nielsen, Clyde Potvin, Bill Letham, Jimmie Trimmingham and the host.

The next meeting will be at the home of Clyde Potvin.

Pleasanton Pupils Win in Latham Poster Contest

Three Boys Win Honors In International Contest

Three pupils of the Pleasanton grammar school won recognition in the international humane poster contest sponsored by the Latham Foundation throughout the United States, it was revealed last week.

Charlie Anselmo, Clyde Siggins and Peter Anderson were the three students receiving the awards in Pleasanton. Clyde Siggins was awarded three dollars for taking first place in group 2, and Peter Anderson received one dollar for his drawing which placed third in the same group. This group was made up of younger students.

Charles Anselmo's drawing was classed in group four, made up of

Pleasanton High Football Squad Holds Practice

1933 Football Prospects Are Bright For Dons Of Amador

A group of boys, who give a good deal of promise of making up next year's varsity football unit, at the Amador high school, played against a team of seniors and alumni members recently. Coach Patterson was well pleased with the showing of his boys, who held the older heads to 12 to 0 score.

The alumni backfield was made up of Muggs George, Bill Bottini, Hughes and Silva. This group is a hard hitting, heady outfit, and the ability of the youngsters to hold them to such a low score augurs well for next year.

Included in the line which played in front of this strong backfield were Gibson, Hardy, and Rowland, all graduating this year.

Next year's backfield suffered a little from insufficient practice, and the shifting of Howell to left half, and Cintrone to quarter will give a pretty smooth offense.

Dutra and Howell will do most of the line plunging, and Abrott and Cintrone will carry the burden of blocking.

Sorensen and Ed Dolstra are a good looking pair of ends, but are lacking in experience.

Madsen and H. Kamp will make it warm for tackle candidates. J. Peters, at center, is coming along fine and should be a tower of strength. Bernard and Haller are a fine pair of guards.

Lack of able reserve strength will handicap the Dons, but this is the usual state of affairs.

Prospects for making the Varsity football letters are bright, due to the fact that the Dons are losing twelve lettermen through graduation.

Two Pleasanton Men Given Fifty Year Pins

Henry P. Mohr and E. L. Benedict, oldtime residents of Pleasanton were presented with fifty year pins by the Alisal Masonic lodge at a special meeting held at the Odd Fellows hall Friday evening.

G. M. Frank Mixer, Masonic Grand Master, presented the two men with their pins, emblems of fifty year's membership in the Masonic lodge.

A quartette from the Scottish Rite temple of San Jose sang a few numbers. Accompanying the quartette on their trip to Pleasanton were several members from the San Jose order.

About one hundred fifty people were present at the gathering. A large banquet was served following the meeting.

Judge T. W. Harris, of Oakland, the oldest living past grand master of the Pleasanton lodge, was among the distinguished guests. Sheriff Driver and deputies of his office who are members of the Oakland Masonic lodges were among the distinguished guests.

The deputies gave an illustrated lantern lecture of how criminals were captured and how the deputies went about their work in other criminal lines.

The Fable of How to Be One

By GEORGE ADE

(© Bell Syndicate.)—WNU Service.
ONCE there were two Side Kicks named Zebulon and Elijah, both of whom are now beginning to show Engine Wear and loosening of the Rivets. Zebulon is regarded as an overwhelming Success, and Elijah is voted a terrible Flop, and to understand the Why of these Verdicts, all you have to do is to run over the Scenarios of their Life Dramas and do a little Character Reading.

Zeb was always large for his Age and very slow, especially above the Shoulder-Blades, so he acquired a Rep for being dignified and cautious.

Life was quick on the Trigger and could see through any Proposition in two Shakes and answer any Question right off the Reel, so all of the Dumb-Bells, constituting 99.4 of the entire Population, hated him for his Cock-sureness and were always hoping that he would stub his Toe and fall down and break his Leg.

Zeb had spent all his Life in one Congressional District, conserving the Property which his Wife inherited, and telling the Natives every few Minutes that they are Nature's Noblemen and snow-white Patriots, and they eat it up.

Getting By on Very Little.

Life has been all over the map, spending his Coin on Railway Fare and Gambling Enterprises connected with new and hopeful Towns. He is wise to every Turn in the Road and has got the Number of every Species of False Alarm, Tight-Wad and Lunkhead. He has cultivated a Contempt for all of the Whispering Conservatives who wear Arctic Overshoes and never let go of Two Bits unless they see something worth Four Bits. When he gets back home he builds a Fire under Sleepy Hollow and tells the Residents that they are simply a lot of Warts on the Cuticle of the Twentieth Century, the Result being that he is just as popular as Poison.

If you were to lock Zebulon and Elijah in a Room together and give each one of them a Set of Questions relating to American History, Current Events, Political Economy, Psychic Phenomena, Farming, Geography and Sporting Data, it is probable that Life would give Correct Replies to everything while Zeb would compromise by saying that this Broad Domain, sanctified by the Blood of our Fathers, must ever be kept inviolate against Foreign Influence and European Alliances.

If you asked Zebulon in a Hurry, he couldn't give you his Street Address or tell what size Hat he wears, yet Zebulon is in Congress. Why? Because, to get in Congress, one does not have to pass any such thing as a Civil Service Examination.

You wouldn't believe, sitting where you are now, this beautiful Morning, surrounded by Steam Heat, that there was any benign Region in the World where a large but decorative Blimp, containing nothing but Artificial Gas, could get by on Whiskers, a wild soft Hat, the Clergyman's tie, a starched Vest, a Prince Albert Suit with a Sheet-Iron Finish, and a few Chest Notes trained to give Expression to all of those Applesauce Platitudes which were in Style up to the Days of Theodore Roosevelt and Woodrow Wilson.

It is a safe 1,000 to 1 Bet that Zebulon never has said Anything which will be sealed up in the Memory of his Countrymen and Preserved for Posterity.

A Ponderous Pipe-Organ.

On the other Hand, this Life is a wise-cracking Whiz, with a side-hold on the Anglo-Saxon Tongue and a Philosopher's Point of View and the Gift of Originality. If he has no Friends, it is because he digs up the unwelcome Truth and spreads it over the Landscape, while Zebulon always tells the Mush-Tops exactly what they want to hear, so what a Nice Feller he is to be sure. And yet the Copy-Books tell us that Knowledge is Power.

Zebulon never figured anything out in his life, because the Wheels in his Gearing do not connect at all, but he just happened to take advantage of the Supreme Truth that One who wishes to stand Ace High with the Public must appeal to the Eye without regard to the Understanding.

For proof of this Interesting Fact, we have only to check up on Hollywood, and any good Beach in Florida.

If a Movie Star can get $18 a second for having ruby-red Lips and beautiful Belledonna Eyes, after being lost in the Desert for Days and Days, why should He or She be compelled to know the Multiplication Table?

And the one-piece Bathing Suit, improperly filled, can give Cards and Spades to Culture, Refinement and Nobility of character.

Zebulon has always been great in the same way that the Redwood Trees, Niagara Falls and the Washington Monument are entitled to respectful Attention. Architecturally, he has been so impressive that no one ever cared a Darn about the Contents of the Massive Work of Art.

A Speed Demon Who Doesn't Get There.

Zeb can take a three-rate Commonplace and make it sound like part of the President's message to Congress. He is a Pipe Organ and Life is a Piccolo, out of tune.

Yes, it is better to have a Cavalry Mustache and a Saint Bernard Voice than to fathom the Mysteries of Science or explore the Beauties of Literature. Every time that Zeb repeats something which he has just read in the Indianapolis Paper, all the Bystanders shake their Heads and admit that the Geezer sure is Deep.

The only Approach to real Wisdom that Zeb has shown is in keeping the Trap closed for Days at a time. He has a positive Genius for long and eloquent Bursts of Silence. While this Vesuvius of Statesmanship is merely smoldering instead of Spouting, he is still majestic, awe-inspiring, and suggestive of an Immense Reserve Power.

Always the Brow is furrowed like a Wash Board, and those who timidly gaze up at the Giant in repose know that Zebulon is meditating. Which is true. He is trying to decide whether to go up to the House and partake of Ham and Eggs or drift over to the Bon Ton Cafeteria and order an Oyster Stew. Zeb figures carefully on every momentous Issue until he knows he is right.

Life, as a single-handed worker, is a Ball of Fire and a Demon for Speed. Zeb has learned, by consistent avoidance of Dangerous Responsibilities, to let his Associates saw all of the Wood, and take all of the Risks. In his Political Maneuvers, Legal Battles and Business Transactions he permits his humble Henchmen to wield the Pick and Shovel while he provides the Scenic Background. Then, if anybody pulls a boner, he is there with a Bushel of Regrets and a complete Alibi. In all of his Career he never got into such a tight Corner that he couldn't pass the Buck. Proving that a Celebrity may be an Intellectual Lightweight and yet have some useful Animal Instincts.

Zebulon is a positive Wow when it comes to delivering an Address of Welcome. One does not have to know anything in order to hand out a few well-chosen Words of Greeting. In fact, any Speaker who is loaded up with Facts and an elementary Sense of Humor probably could not make good in serving all that hot Hokum and Gravy to a bunch of sleepy Kioodles wearing Badges.

Life believes in bawling out the Boobs and Zeb has made it a Rule to massage them with perfumed Ointment. So Life is trying to get a job as Traveling Salesman and Zeb is having his Portrait painted by a City Artist, and after the Thing is done the Federated Clubs are going to buy it and hang it in the Public Library between Washington and Lincoln, but Zeb will have a larger and more gilded Frame than those which were accorded the other two Eminent Americans.

MORAL—There are a lot of Things some Folks won't believe until they go to Washington and sit in the Gallery.

South African Folk Music

Traced Back to Holland

In South Africa today there are still people singing the songs that their ancestors sang in Holland seven hundred or eight hundred years ago, says a writer in the San Francisco Chronicle. This has been known as a result of an effort to record on the gramophone the peculiar folk music that has grown up among the white colonists since they first settled at the Cape in 1652.

A number of nations have contributed to South African folk music, including Hottentots, Malay slaves imported there in the Seventeenth and Eighteenth centuries, Bantu tribesmen from the north, and members of Oriental races shipwrecked on the shores. But the bulk of South Africa's folk music is of white origin, based on that of old-time Holland, also on that of France, England and Germany 200 or more years ago. Many of the melodies exist only in the memories of the native fiddlers at Boer merrymakings.

Perhaps the most curious phase of the local music is that it has preserved verses that are only historical curios in their countries of origin. Such, for instance, is the famous old lay, "Die Nonnetjie en die Riddertjie" (The Little Nun and the Little Knight), sung by Calvinistic Boers, to whom a Catholic Europe is inconceivable and to whom the customs of medieval knighthood are wholly unfamiliar.

Some men owe everything they have to their wives," says ironic Irene, "while others married women who didn't have anything the husband could borrow."

$150,000 Is Not Going to the Dogs

Denver.—Administration of a $150,000 estate that should have gone to the dogs was ordered investigated by Gov. Edwin C. Johnson recently.

The huge estate was bequeathed to "Shep," lumbering shepherd dog, by his master, Fred H. Forrester of Denver, six years ago.

Shep lived luxuriously for two years, then died.

Under terms of the trust the money administered by the Colorado board of child and animal welfare, was to go to homeless dogs of Colorado.

The board has built three dog drinking fountains in Denver and assisted the Dumb Friends' league.

Joseph M. Wood, public examiner, claimed $10,000 of the dogs' money had been invested in a Texas oil development concern.

The governor wants to know whether homeless dogs are receiving the maximum benefits from the trust.

Warning to Coal Miners by Gramophone Records

A novel plan for cutting down the number of accidents in mines has been adopted at a South Wales colliery, and may shortly be in general use in coalfields.

As the miners are about to go down, a gramophone record is put on, warning the men of the principal dangers of work underground. It begins:

"Hullo! Manager calling! Safety First. Search your pockets for matches before you go down the pit. . . . Don't go in front of trams where the gradient is over three inches per yard. You must not work under overhanging coal or ground unless securely spragged. . . ."

Gramophone records, specially designed to prevent panic in case of fire, and to secure the orderly emptying of school rooms and public places in such circumstances, have been made, and the idea is capable of other applications.

But we possibly mustn't expect too much from such methods. The records may have an effect at first, but when the novelty wears off they may be ignored, just as printed warnings are.—Answers Magazine.

Birds Are Not Guided by Any "Special Sense"

Repeated observations of the behavior of migrating birds have convinced an investigator at Sheffield University, that they are not guided by any "special sense" but that they find their way by watching their surroundings and by profiting from experience.

"Birds possess an 'eye-brain,'" says. "Their sense of vision is extraordinarily acute and by no means indiscriminating. It seems unreasonable to brush aside the idea that migrants may obtain guidance by taking stock of landmarks. Furthermore, the sense of hearing may play a part. The wash of the waves is a reminder to hug the coast—the guide-line of primary importance. The courses of great rivers are followed by overland migrants."

"Birds band together for the trip, thus giving the untraveled young an opportunity to be guided over the route by adults who have already been over the ground."

"In thick weather migrating birds often go astray, and, arriving at unaccustomed haunts, are classified as rare and accidental vagrants. When the gloom deepens the voyagers become sorely handicapped, while a dense and prolonged fog will put the brakes effectually on migration."—Montreal Herald.

Having raised part of the funds necessary to defray expenses of the Camp Fire Girls at their summer camp at the Big Basin, the Mothers' Club is planning to swell the fund by means of a home-made candy sale in the near future. Troop Two, of Niles, won honors over their companion troop from Niles at the Camporee held last Saturday and Sunday at Lakeside, in Oakland. The only two troops to go to the camporee from Washington township, the two vied for honors. Troop Two won by many points, showing an exceptional knowledge of camping lore and practice. Scoutmaster Pine was vastly pleased with the way his charges came through. Troop one, sad to say, did not show the efficiency or leadership of its brother troop.

Troop One of Niles wishes to thank members of troop two for the transportation from the Camporee.

Troop Two, is awaiting the decision of its leaders as to the troops taking part in the Camporee to be held in the near future at Golden Gate park, San Francisco. The Camporee is planned for sometime in September, and will be a meet of troops for a considerable portion of the state.

MOSQUITO BREEDING MARSH DRAINED THIS WEEK

Draining of 600 acres of mosquito breeding marsh on Dumbarton Point was completed this week by a crew of three men working under direction of Roland Bendel, inspector of the Mosquito Abatement District. Millions of mosquitoes infesting southern Alameda county have migrated from this marsh in the past.

Completion of the drainage system will eliminate the necessity for regular oiling of this marsh several times each year. Drainage of large areas is far more economical over a period of years than is oiling, Bendel explained.

Last week Bendel oiled a half mile of roadside pools along Boice road near Innes dairy, inspected and oiled sixteen cesspools in the Warm Springs district, and stocked two ponds in Centerville with mosquito fish.

Alameda Creek, which was inspected from above Niles to Alvarado, is drying out and will require but little further oiling this summer, Bendel reported.

"I'm Robbed," says Vet. "Hooley," Says Ebright

David Bessee, itinerant world war veteran, Monday night rushed into the office of the Township Register and stated that he had been robbed of his handbag and sea bag containing all of his worldly goods, including his precious pension papers. He stated that he had left his material in his camp under what he thought was the watchful eye of some of his recent traveling companions. When he returned he found companions and bags gone. Investigation by Constable O. W. Ebright revealed that Bessee's companions had simply moved to the other side of the bridge pier, with no intent of theft. Bessee was quite embarrassed at the turn of affairs.

CALIFORNIA ALUMNI TOYON BRANCH SALE HEAD VISITS TOWNSHIP CONCLUDED AFTER THREE DAYS

Robert Sibley, California Alumni Association head, and Mrs. Sibley were guests of honor at a dinner given by Mrs. J. R. Whipple Monday night. Sibley, who has been active as the leader of the California Alumni Association for many years, and also as a consulting electrical engineer for large corporations, is soon to leave for Sweden, there to address an international convention of engineers. He was summoned by King Gustav of Sweden to head the meet.

At the dinner Monday night, Sibley stated his enthusiasm over the southern part of Alameda county, and mentioned that there is a possibility that a regional California alumni meet may be held in this area at some future date. Such an alumni meet would draw around ten thousand members, the large proportion of whom live in and around the east bay.

Among the other guests at the dinner were Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Shinn, Roland Bendel and Clement Donovan.

"Flash" Rose Quits Drygoods Business

"Flash" Rose, who started a small dry goods store in Niles a couple of months ago, has given up his business, according to rumor along the Niles Main street. The store where "Flash" had his business, recently replete with all manner of goods and apparel, is noticeably barren. "Flash" said that he is going to work his fruit farm throughout the harvest and then assist his brother in the latter's drygoods business at Centerville.

A rummage sale, conducted by the Toyon Branch of the Children's Hospital of Alameda county, was concluded on Monday evening after a three-day period of sales, during which many poor Washington township families were provided with excellent clothing at negligible prices. According to Mrs. J. R. Whipple, Toyon Branch chairman, the sale brought in over $50, all of which will be used by the hospital in Oakland in the care of children.

The chairman wishes to thank all those who were thoughtful enough to donate salable material to the group, as well as commend the members of the branch who spent their time in making the sale a success. Of an unusual interest was the donation of Mrs. Hobbs, formerly of this region, who lives in France. Never missing an opportunity to assist the children's hospital group, Mrs. Hobbs sent a substantial donation from her Paris home.

Many members think that by increasing the advertising of the sale in future years, that it can be made a charitable event of large proportions. Benefit of the sale to indigent families is great.

Henry Ford
Dearborn, Mich.

May 22, 1933

I suppose that I may claim to be the first Ford Dealer. I not only made cars, but sold them and frequently delivered them myself.

The "drive away" is not new; often I have driven cars from Detroit to towns in Ohio or Indiana or Michigan to make delivery.

There were no good roads in those days, and the people where I drove had never seen a motor car before.

My first really enthusiastic customers were Country Doctors. They were the first to realize the value of dependable transportation to a widely scattered practice.

Even today I occasionally hear from some of those first Ford users.

We had to teach local mechanics how to care for the cars. That is how Ford Service began, which is now found everywhere in the world.

We believed from the beginning that a sale does not complete our transaction with our customer — it creates upon us an obligation to see that our customer's car gives him service. Ford Dealers know their duty to the public in this respect.

I can say of Ford Dealers generally that they have been and are men of character and standing in their communities. Most of them have been with us many years, which indicates that we agree on basic business principles. The Company provides that the methods used to sell the Ford car are consistent with the self-respect of the Dealers who handle it.

The present Ford V-8 is the peak of our 30 years experience.

We have never made a better car. Its eight-cylinder engine is powerful and smooth running. The car is admittedly very good looking and has comfortable riding qualities. It is economical in operation because of advanced engine design and low car weight. It is the fastest, roomiest and most powerful car we have ever built.
